committed in this Colony there is no reason why such a vicious system should be continued.

The object of the Government in urging the erection of a new goal is that the sophisticated system may be introduced. It is assumed that this system applied to the Chinese would prove more deterrent than the associated system, but from this view the Chinese member, the Hon. Ho Kai, emphatically dissents. According to him, solitary confinement would be felt very lightly by the apathetic Chinaman, who can dispense with company less readily than members of more lively races. On the other hand the Hon. Mr. Macdonnell, J.P., who was at one time in charge of the goal and may be supposed to speak with some authority, says that Chinese prisoners placed in cells by themselves at night are afraid of ghosts and in one or two cases have hanged themselves. Whether it would be worth while to spend possibly half-a-million of dollars on a new goal in order that a few superstitious Chinese may have their fear of ghosts played upon is a question to which the ratepayers who would have to find the money can be expected to return only an answer. The Hon.

Ho Kai says, however, that by is persuaded there are other means than solitary confinement by which the goal could be rendered more deterrent than it is. What these means are he was not prepared to say at the moment, but he said that if he were consulted by the Government he would be happy to state his views. It is to be hoped the Government will consult him, and that the hon. member's suggestions will prove valuable. Meanwhile the attention of the Secretary of State might, with advantage, be directed to what Mr. Ho Kai says as to the mistake of treating Chinese prisoners as if they were Europeans, and assuming that what is necessary for the latter is equally necessary for the former.

Granting, however, for the sake of argument that solitary confinement would be severely felt by the Chinese it may reasonably be doubted whether it would have any appreciable effect in the diminution of crime. Most crimes are committed without much regard to the consequences. "When the burglar goes a burgling" he is careful to escape detection if he can, but beyond this his thoughts do not travel very far. If, as was formerly the case in Hongkong, the goal is made such a pleasant place of residence that men find themselves more comfortable in it than out of it, of course it puts a premium on crime, but so long as the criminals know that punishment is not likely to be considered very closely the precise degree of punishment.

It is argued that the reformatory effects of the separate system would be valuable, we can only say that this idea rests solely on speculation, and that to put it to the test of experiment would cost a sum far beyond what the results would in all probability be worth and far beyond what the Colony is in a position to afford.

A telegram in a California paper dated Ann Arbor, Mich., November 7, says: "Two Japanese students of the Michigan University have created a sensation by displaying two American girls from here. The girls are Katsuko Fukushima and Keiko Tokuda, both of noble family and graduates of the law department here last year. One of the girls was Miss Fuller, of Ypsilanti, who is quite young, of good family, and handsome. The other woman is considerably older and well known in certain circles. There is no trace of the fugitives.

Messrs. Kuhn & Co. have just received a very handsome lot of goods and varied stock in the shape of a consignment of watches, rings, and all kinds of jewelry, very suitable for Christmas presents. Besides handsome rings of all kinds, there are also a number of very high looking solitaires, and useful timepieces for ordinary use, a noticeable feature of the stock of watches being that every kind of watch is represented, and the stock is at one time in charge of the goal and
